REPORT OF SCHOOL BOARD

At the close of the school year ending March 1st, 1912, we find the district in good financial standing.

Much has been done by way of repairs to improve and preserve the property of the district. The shed at the Center schoolhouse has received much needed repairs and has been connected with the main building by a covered passageway, which has proven of great convenience to the scholars. The interior of the schoolroom has been re-decorated and curtained and minor improvements made. The East Washington schoolhouse has been newly shingled and the Wilcox division schoolhouse has received minor repairs.

Three terms each were held by the Center and East Washington schools and two by the Wilcox division school.

Scholars who came into the Farnsworth division after the beginning of the second term have received schooling at the Center school and transportation has been furnished throughout the remainder of the school year.

The following new text books have been introduced: Davidson's physiologies, "Human Body and Health," Elementary, Intermediate and Advanced. The works by Alvin Davidson present the subjects of anatomy, physiology and hygiene in such a clear, concise manner that new life has been given to what has been an uninteresting and a quite neglected study. Forman's "Essentials of Civil Government" and Smiley's "Handbook of American Literature" for the more advanced scholars.

We herewith append items of the different schools, together with the roll of perfect attendance in each.
